

Dr. Diego Montecino-Latorre
Wildlife Conservation Society
Bronx, NY
dmontecino@wcs.org
February 2025

Dr. Mark A. Burgman, Editor in Chief Conservation Biology

I am writing to submit a revised version of the manuscript entitled "Wildlife health perceptions and monitoring practices in globally distributed protected areas" (24-839).

We sincerely appreciate your time and the reviewers' efforts in evaluating this manuscript. The feedback has been invaluable in strengthening our work, and we believe this revised document offers a more robust and meaningful contribution to understanding the challenges of wildlife monitoring in protected areas.

We have carefully addressed every comment from the Regional Editor Christopher Anderson and both reviewers, making substantial revisions to improve clarity, depth, and coherence. These revisions include a more comprehensive Introduction, a more detailed Methods section, expanded Results, an enhanced Discussion, and modified figures.

We believe that this Research Letter adds a valuable perspective to the existing body of knowledge and aligns with Conservation Biology's mission to publish innovative and impactful studies.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Diego Montecino-Latorre', with a long horizontal line extending from the bottom of the signature.

Dr. Diego Montecino-Latorre
Data Specialist and Health Researcher
Wildlife Conservation Society - Health Program
dmontecino@wcs.org